THE "ANNUAL"

INVESTIGATION

Periodically, the Federal Trade Commission begins to rip some dustry up the back.

With nothing better has again started in on the oil. To secure public sentiment for its lat est "report" the communion alleges that the Standard Oil Co dominates the oil trade of the Pacific coast to the detriment of the public, and that independent oil companies were in an association which "fixed" prices but followed the price which the Standard Oil named

It is probable that the price of oil strikes a general average just as the price of milk, eggs or wheat averages the same for a number of producers in any district. It is more than likely if either one of the big oil companies which compete actively for business in the west could produce and sell oil at a profit for a less price than its compeditor, it would do it to get the business It was but a few months ago that the Federal Trade Commission started in to rip up the western lumber industry. It has parboiled the meat industry until the public is sick of it. It has "investigated" the oil industry on numerous occasions.

It would be more interesting to know just what public benefit has ever resulted from any investigation which the Federal Trade Commission has ever carried on. If the facts were known each investigation costs the public money through interfering
